

During lessons and other learning activities, we listen attentively to our teachers. Everyone behaves well and we are able to get on with our learning.

School Staff & Parents

When a child does find it hard to concentrate due to their own, or someone else's distraction, they can move to a quieter table on their own where they can focus on their task more.

It can be noisy in class

If a child feels that they need to focus better with their work, they have the opportunity to move to a table on their own in a quiet space.

Listening is mostly attentive however some low level negative behaviour does impact on learning experience. I feel that there are still some issues to address with regards respect and responsibilities.

Pupils

Everyone behaves and listens well.

We could be better because everyone chats we could be better.

Some people listen well.

Most people behave and listen.

Some people ignore the teachers.

Yes I look and listen, Excellent.

Mr Williams

I am glad our Upper Stages class are taking advantage of the green concentration tables to learn.

I am very happy that the average score is 'Very Good'!

Action to improve

The Upper Stages class will have group/individual points to earn in term four with rewards to enjoy.

This will hopefully improve our respect of class, lunch and play rules to an even higher evaluation!
